Ryoji: Hi, Ellen. How are you doing?

Ellen: Hi, Ryoji. I'm very fine. And you?

Ryoji: I'm very fine, thank you. How is your life in Japan?

Ellen: It's exciting. Every day I'm very happy to learn a lot of things about Japan.

Ryoji: That sounds great. What is the most interesting thing for you?

Ellen: Well, I like Japanese noodles very much. I'm very interested in noodles. I hear there are many kinds of noodles in Japan.

Ryoji: That's right. I like Japanese noodles, too. What kind of Japanese noodles do you like the best?

Ellen: Actually, I haven't tried Japanese noodles many times, but I remember one. In the donburi I saw noodles like udon in miso soup. It was very hot and tasted delicious.

Ryoji: It's "misonikomi," right?

Ellen: Oh, yes. I only had one chance to eat misonikomi, but I was very impressed with it. Do you like misonikomi?

Ryoji: Yes, of course. I like misonikomi the best of all noodles. Miso is important when you think of the food culture in Aichi. Have you visited a misogura yet?

Ellen: A misogura? No, I haven't. What is it?

Ryoji: A misogura is a kind of building for making miso. If you go to a misogura, you will learn more about Japanese food and culture.

Ellen: That sounds interesting. I'd like to visit a misogura.

Ryoji: OK. How about next Sunday? My little sister hasn't visited a misogura yet, so I'll take her there. Would you like to join us?
